Compact new side console fishers with beefed up hulls, improved seating and storage

If you're into fishing and exploring the waterways, Stacer says its newly designed Nomad range has a boat for you.

The big aluminium brand has released two brand new models — the 449 (opening photo) and 469 (second photo) — to add to its already extensive Nomad line-up including the 489, 509, 539 and 579 models.

The Nomad fleet now features 4mm bottom sheets and 3mm top side sheets across the range, making these handy-sized boats stronger and even more at home on back-country roads and exploring secret fishing spots.

The new standard Sports Side Console has a modern sporty look with more dash space allowing for larger sounders and electronics to be fitted, adds Stacer.

The boats have also been designed with plenty of room to take your mates fishing, with an extra seat spigot added to the front casting platform taking the total to four seating positions for maximum fishability.

Stacer National Account Manager Drew Jackson said the Nomad range has always been a favourite among anglers and the new features are sure to keep it this way.

"Fishos will love the new features like the new Shark Carpet which is soft underfoot and provides excellent grip," adds Jackson.

"We have extended the range of Nomads to offer better variety to our customers and now with so many sizes available across the range there is a model to suit every lifestyle and budget.

"The Nomads offer great value for money with so many features coming as standard including carpeted floors, Bimini and envelope and four rod holders," Drew says.
